

Veterinary anthelmintic medication - a review of the literature up to December 1960 (with addendum, 1962)

Commonwealth Agricultural Bureaux - A Review of the Toxicity and Phytochemistry of Medicinal Plant Species Used by Herbalists in Treating People Living With HIV/AIDS in Uganda

Description: -

-

Space perception

Korean language -- Semantics

Veterinary medicine.

Parasites -- Domestic animals. Veterinary anthelmintic medication - a review of the literature up to December 1960 (with addendum, 1962)

-

Technical communication of the Commonwealth Institute of Helminthology ; no. 33 Veterinary anthelmintic medication - a review of the literature up to December 1960 (with addendum, 1962)

Notes: Includes bibliographies and index.

This edition was published in 1962

Filesize: 15.16 MB

Tags: #MAX #HENRY #MEMORIAL #LIBRARY, #Australian #Veterinary #Journal

VETERINARY ANTHELMINTIC MEDICATION, Australian Veterinary Journal

There is also an addendum to bring This is a very useful book which summarizes a trethe information on certain compounds up to 1962.

Veterinary anthelmintic medication; a review of the literature up to December 1960, with addendum, 1962.

The cytotoxicity of the plant extracts is desirous against cancer cells and researchers actively look out for selectively cytotoxic compounds against specific cancer cells, as potential drug candidates.

The parasitic phase of Ostertagia ostertagi: quantification of the main life history traits through systematic review and meta

Ethnomed 6 1 , 1—9. However, polyherbal preparations can also have unpredictable and complicated effects arising from the various interactions that can occur among the individual components and could increase the cytotoxic effect.

Experimental Fascioliasis in Australia

Vitr 8 6 , 1303—1312. For example, Zingiber officinale ginger is used to neutralize the toxic effects of the tuber of Pinellia ternata, without compromising its therapeutic effects. The several classifications of anthelmintics as employed in the Republic of South Africa, are defined and an example is given of the label which is carried by the product as marketed for anthelmintic use.

Related Books

- Poëty i stikhotvortsy - obzor, retsenziia, portret
- Magical and ritual use of herbs
- Hostiensis summa avrea - ad vetustissimos codices summa fide diligentiaque nuno primum collata ...
- Xiao zhi yuan zi zhao shi bai 101 jian chun shi
- Field guide to lower aquarium animals