Benefits of Parks and Recreation Master Planning

The building footprint is based upon the designs provided to us by Dorset HealthCare and reflect the requirements to house the services provided. Recreation Niche: Because not all people can be accommodated in all places, recreation planning helps to focus on the special values and resources of a setting and to define the special niche within the larger spectrum of recreation opportunities.

Better regulation: taking stock and sustaining our commitment

Plans may be completed in-house professional administrative, parks and recreation, or planning staff members. Recreation Compatibility: Some recreation uses are not compatible with other uses, and recreation planners have the responsibility to determine what, if any, uses should be permitted, and where those activities should be permitted.

Recreation & Relaxation Lesson Plan: All Subjects

If a local government does not have in-house staffing expertise, the jurisdiction may contract the services of a private consulting firm.

Section 1: Planning and Design

The diversity of options with asterisks are interchangeable and purposed to stimulate your own ideas.

Why a Recreation Center?

Recreation Allocation: Recreation resource planning requires recreation allocation decisions because not all types and number of people or activities can be accommodated in a particular setting at one time.
