The Ten Most Disturbing Scientific Discoveries

Freud might have been wrong in the details, but one of his main ideas—that a lot of our behaviors and beliefs and emotions are driven by factors we are unaware of—turns out to be correct. Whether this be exact or no, we can easily conceive the quantity of water which lies in the cavities of our globe to be greater or less than it at present is. It numbers already between 500 and 600 subscribers of One Guinea and upwards per annum, and the Committee have been enabled to enter into such arrangements with the most eminent Photographic artists both in our own country and on the Continent, as to ensure the formation of probably the largest collection of Architectural Photographs yet brought together.
