A torrent of insult and abuse was poured out upon the petitioners. Hay, stipendiary chairman of the Salford quarter sessions, did, in his address to the grand jury, allude to the subject in the following terms : ' As judicial inquiries would be instigated against the offending parties, it would not be just to enter much upon the subject, but he might be permitted to say, should such inquiries take place, purposes of the blackest enormity must be disclosed to the public, and that those who professed to doubt their existence would finally be constrained to admit the existence of the whole of them ;' that the suspension of the act of Habeas Corpus being, as appears by the term of the bill itself, applicable only to persons 'suspected of entertaining designs hostile to his majesty's government,' the petitioners conceive that it never was intended by the house to supersede the necessity of public judicial inquiries into charges of treason, distinct and specified in their character, and of unparalleled atrocity in their complexion ; that the petitioners are therefore persuaded that the house will learn with astonishment, that all the persons arrested as participators in this alleged conspiracy have been discharged without trial; and they would further represent to the house, that if the slightest suspicion of the guilt of the parties still remains, it is most dangerous to the welfare and tranquillity of the country at large, to restore to liberty, and consequently to the capability of doing mischief, men who have connected themselves with a design of such dreadful wickedness! Abbott's PGM testing, more conclusive results, in terms of PGM typing and sub-typing, than were obtained by the F.
