Songquest: the journals of Great Lakes folklorist Ivan H. Walton

Her father and mother had been married in exile; her grandfather had been distinguished for his services as well as for his misfortunes, and upon both sides her family had been notable for more than one generation for its loyalty and its importance in the Scotch struggle for the restoration of the Stuarts. Come, wash the glass, fill a bumper, Here's a health to each honest Lad : And a confusion to each Pumper, Let's drink while 'tis to be had : AVhilst the Stars they look blew, and day again we view, For there's nothing that's sober found : The sun sucks the Ocean, the stars in their motion All do carrou? Bonner said he got it from his brother-in-law, who had acquired it near Escanaba, Michigan, probably forty years ago from a fellow who was broke and came to the lumber camp where he was working. The attack on his moral character in re fwmince, is possibly a grace of the balladist.

To the modern novelists and readers who look at consciousness in this way, the presentation of a story in a straight chronological line becomes unsatisfactory and unreal. Endowed with a marvellous imaginative and creative mind, he could put new life into old familiar stories and make them glow with deepest thoughts and tenderest feelings.
