Henry Windsor (1562

The area of Bentley Pauncefoot is 1,688 acres, including 511¼ acres of arable land, 1,532½ acres of permanent grass, and 63¼ acres of woods; and that of Webheath 2,185 acres, including 438 acres of arable land and 1,174 acres of permanent grass. Detail of image from Hewell Grange is now owned by the prison service, and the remainder of the estate was sold into private ownership. Thought that your visit to the Tower of London and the Royal Palaces would be a bit more interesting if you had some personal connection to people and events.

Other Windsor, 6th Earl of Plymouth

Born: ABT 1068, Pembroke, Pembrokeshire, Wales Father: Mother: Gwaladus VERCH RHIWALLON Married: ¿? There were also two green grocers, including Eleanor Wilkie, 60, a widow and mother of two, whose teenage son John was a seaman.

Parishes: Tardebigge

Woodcarvers, sculptors, tapestry workers were brought from abroad to work on the décor of the house. Nash gives the following account of the old church: 'The church was dedicated to St.

HMP Hewell: Jodie Pugh and Danielle Ofkants have been jailed after admitting relationships with convicts

Here again is a reminder of the four phases in which Grangetown was built and which are referred to in the following text: Phases 1 and 2 were named after Windsor family members, their estates or fellow investors: Phase 1 1857 - 1865 : York Place, Clive, Holmesdale, Oakley, Hewell, Knole, Sevenoaks, Bromsgrove, Worcester, Earl, Amherst, Kent. I will trace the Heard Family descent from Edward and then the Jackson Family descent from George. He died without heirs in 1680, and the title became extinct.

Harriet Windsor

He was not a Windsor by birth but a Clive - from his father. YORK PLACE This short street runs still from the junction of Clive Street and Ferry Road and descends to the new Ferry Road that lines the retail park.

Other Windsor, 6th Earl of Plymouth

Grange history Origins of Grangetown's street names By Ray Noyes and Zena Mabbs The area we are talking about here is Lower Grangetown - highlighted on the map above and contained between Clive Street, Bronsgrove Street and Holmesdale Street as far as Newport Street and Ferry Road.
