Also, because there is no one standard smart TV operating system, most smart TV operating systems are abandoned quickly, meaning you'll get very few apps, little support, and a device that's effectively obsolete in 2 years. For many years, the 1920 x 1080 resolution, also called full HD, has been the standard, and is still the most common resolution in TVs across globe.

Home Buying Guide: A Complete Guide to Purchasing a House

An HDR-capable TV playing back HDR content can reproduce a greater range of brightness and colors than has ever been possible with TVs, giving you brighter highlights, deeper reds and blues, and more vibrant greens. What's the point if they'll just pull the rug out from under you? It doesn't matter whether you're taking your time or jumping on a great deal. A larger 720p set if you can find one.

Buyers' Guide

With few exceptions, every mid- and large-size TV today offers Ultra HD UHD or 4K resolution. .

Main Page

But 120 Hz is fast becoming standard, so it can't hurt to pick that up.
