Fast chess

The Kasparov-Korchnoi time-scramble depicted in the first programme was one of the most exciting I have ever seen.

This is a marvellous modern trend, taken to extremes in their bloodthirsty match, where no games were drawn at all. Karjakin defeated Carlsen in their individual encounter.

Fast chess

Lower time controls are called 'hyperbullet' and 'ultrabullet' for 30-second-per-player and 15-second-per-player games, respectively. Game 11 was the most stirring: Sokolov — Karpov: Caro-Kann. After his first-round draw, he should not have been on Board 1 until Round 8 when he caught the leaders.

Fast chess

The Washington Divan 2445 15th St. The top 4 from the round-robin played a series of matches in 1986, the winner of which Sokolov in turn got to play in a final match in to determine the championship challenger.
