Religion productive of joy, and consistent with politeness. A sermon preached at the Abbey

The contest had been severe, but the triumph is complete. The Fall of Adam and the Redemption by Christ. In April 1759, when Mr Smellie's apprenticeship ex- pired, he entered into an engagement with Messrs.

His final settlement in this see was followed by a visitation of the clergy under his controul, and the performance of those other duties incumbent on his new station. I thought it unbecoming a penitent to have his hair powdered. But in 1799 and again in 1812 the state, trembling for its rent, gave the zameendars further authority.
