Big Two and Mid Ulster derbies called off because of Covid

The high Covid-19 numbers in Northern Ireland and latest spate of postponements is likely to increase calls for a pause in play in the Danske Bank Premiership. Newspapers, in general, are sometimes the only source for some births, deaths and marriages before compulsory registration. Unfortunately the books are now out of print but copies are available in local libraries.

Team Contacts

It also has a substantial local history collection of books and primary sources. In the community, patients may be referred to the service by a healthcare professional, including the GP, Consultant, Community Nursing and other Allied Health Professional.

Physiotherapy Services

Dietitians are qualified and regulated health professionals that assess, diagnose and treat dietary and nutritional problems at an individual and wider public-health level. Team promote healthy eating advice throughout all stages of the life-cycle and in turn helping to prevent diet-related diseases through their training and education programmes. Statistics show a weekly breakdown of new cases by postcode areas — for example the BT42 and BT43 areas which take in the Ballymena district — had 174 and 85 between January 4-10.

Presses start rolling as weekly newspapers prepare to publish again

The number of cases since the start of the pandemic in Northern Ireland is now 95,361. For more details on the CDs, see Copyright 2011 W. Dietitians use the most up to date scientific and public health research on food, health and disease to provide practical guidance for people, enabling them to make the most appropriate nutrition and lifestyle choices.

Banbridge Chronicle and Newry Reporter are latest newspapers to suspend publication

. It also has a substantial local history collection of books and primary sources, including microfilm copies of church records for many parts of the county. Certainly I have memories of this being the case in our house.

Ballymena hold leaders Crusaders as Coleraine win at Portadown

THE Mourne Observer will be available again in newsagents' shops this morning, heralding a return to the shelves of a number of weekly newspapers which were temporarily shut during the coronavirus pandemic.
