Snell had been a schoolmaster in Africa but came to Colindale in north London to indulge his antiquarian interests in 1906. The year after Sir Bernard Burke's death, Horace Round took up this theme and wrote an article on 'The Peerage', i. John Jackson's Gift in lieu of his bond: By an assignment of 27 November 1822 money was given to Trustees: £200 was to be used for the upkeep of Wymondham Meeting House and £200 for the repair of Thetford, Hingham and Mattishall Meeting Houses; £200 was given to the Norfolk and Norwich Quarterly Meeting to be used for poor members of Wymondham meeting or, should that meeting be dissolved, as the Quarterly Meeting directed.
