Preventing Intimate Partner Violence

These combine to make many women both more afraid of the risk-taking involved in crime, as well as giving them fewer opportunities than men to commit crime.

Gender and Crime

Psychologists and other mental health professionals must join forces with community activists and policymakers to address the warehousing of poor and vulnerable persons in correctional facilities. Steps are being taken to improve the education and integration of asylum-seekers whose applications have been accepted.

Sex differences in crime

Such violence is recognised as a violation of human rights and a form of discrimination against women, reflecting the pervasive imbalance of power between women and men. A 2008 review published in the journal found that although less serious situation violence or altercation was equal for both genders, more serious and violent abuse was perpetrated by men.

and The Female Offender on JSTOR

The trend results from 2003 to 2012 showed the vast majority of crimes were still committed by men with around 88% of homicides and 75% of all legal felonies. Study summary: A group of researchers, led by Olivia Choy and Adrian Raine of University of Pennsylvania, examine one possible reason why men engage in more crime than women.
