Dr. Chris O'Grady

Once the new sleep habit is firmly established, the night wakings will stop. Offer one minute of comfort, then leave.

Dr. Chris O'Grady

Try not to bend on this one.

William H. O'Grady

But it is much easier to run to Mom or Dad than wait and relax, so for the child, this is not really a difficult choice. Some children are afraid to sleep alone.

Brian O'Grady, et al v. Dennis Birenbaum, No. 16

Then talk about things the child likes. So, in summary, here is how it works: You go through your getting-ready-for-bed routine, which is relaxing and comfortable.
