Christian Education

Methodology A method is, of course, a means to an end, not an end in itself. No school that is careless concerning the Christlikeness of its teachers can be sure to fulfill the purpose of Christian education. Academic subjects—whether in the humanities or in the natural sciences, whether general or strictly vocational—are studied not as ends in themselves but as means of improving the student as a servant of God.

BIBLE VERSES ABOUT CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

In scriptural leadership, he who leads must also serve Matt. To acknowledge this correspondence is not to claim a degree of deity for man but to recognize that man, the creature, uniquely bears the stamp of his Creator.

BIBLE VERSES ABOUT CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

This only happens through a Spiritual formation of wanting to be like Christ, knowing how Christ would act, and then acting likewise. Since the Flood He has used a rainbow to inform the world that He will not again destroy the earth by water. And these words that I command you today shall be on your heart.

What is the Definition of Christian Education?

The Imitation of God In endeavoring to fulfill the purpose of Christian education—the development of Christlikeness in redeemed man—the Christian school teaches, as a consequence of the knowledge of God, the imitation of God.
