Some Fruits of Solitude: Proverbs, Wisdom, and Principles for Better Living: William Penn: 9780890516508

Do you long for simpler days and the wisdom that guided them? They must first judge themselves, that presume to censure others: And such will not be apt to overshoot the Mark. It were Happy if we studied Nature more in natural Things; and acted according to Nature; whose rules are few, plain and most reasonable.

Act not the Shark upon thy Neighbors; nor take Advantage of the Ignorance, Prodigality or Necessity of any one: For that is next door to Fraud, and, at best, makes but an Unblest Gain. Bitterness comes very near to Enmity, and that is Beelzebub; because the Perfection of Wickedness. No other compensation was received.

God's Works declare his Power, Wisdom and Goodness; but Man's Works, for the most part, his Pride, Folly and Excess. That's like a Man, but this below a Beast. We press their Memory too soon, and puzzle, strain, and load them with Words and Rules; to know Grammer and Rhetorick, and a strange Tongue or two, that it is ten to one may never be useful to them; Leaving their natural Genius to Mechanical and Physical, or natural Knowledge uncultivated and neglected; which would be of exceeding Use and Pleasure to them through the whole Course of their Life.

Some Fruits Of Solitude Quotes by William Penn

Though a brilliant scholar and generous man, Penn's refusal to allow Pennsylvania to be stripped of these values in order to sell it, meant he would eventually die penniless and was buried in an unmarked grave.
