The games are not competitive—they encourage and reward children for participation, not for winning. Start by writing 5 questions on a whiteboard. The child who unwraps the last layer gets to eat the treat or keep the toy.

Drumming Activities for Preschoolers

It also gives them a chance to express themselves creatively and share a few laughs. Studies have found that students who receive musical education perform better with tasks that involve memory or language skills. Ask them to close their eyes while you play a segment of each song.
