Sions memento, and Gods alarum : in a sermon at VVestminster, before the Honorable House of Commons, on the 31. of May 1643. the solemn day of their monethly fast / by Francis Cheynell late Fellow of Merton College in Oxford ; printed and published by order of the House of Commons.

The times are sad, my Text was seasonable: Though Babylon be at Rome, yet there are some sonnes and daughters of Babylon too here in England: Sion is now surrounded by them, and your Honourable House is most eminently opposed by them: Many there are that plot against you, all the Antichristian Politicians in the Christian world are beating their brains how to destroy you, but their Plots are discovered, their Designes defeated by the watchfull providence of an Omniscient God, Many there are that fight against you, against you, I say, for it is evident that those many thousands who are up in Arms, do not fight for the King, but against the Parliament: This man fights for a place at Court, and the other, perchance, for a place in the Church, or rather over the Church: O bloody Simony! Deliver thy self O Zion. We are cautious in giving a date when they will be available but we are aiming for late this year or early next. Published by John Featley, 2 parts, 12mo, London, 1660.

Now as the great Dragon did manage the whole businesse, whilst that Heathenisme was supported by the power of the Romane Emperours, as St. This book should be a great encouragement to those entrusted with these most important spiritual duties and privileges! You see we are not afraid to discover our Plots, and truly I am guilty of no other, then what I have this day discovered: I shall employ my utmost strength, consecrate my Totum nil, blow my Rams-horn against Babylon, and study how to build up Sion, that's all I intend.
