Tera to jinja (1981 edition)

It is said that the main hall is the biggest wooden building in the world Un tera es un templo budista. No tree or beast that will not blow. Its like the English Oyster card.

Jinja

This must have been the best tip yet. I am a strong believer that all forms of martial arts have their strong and weak points.

Jinja

This is the symbol of the legendary wizard, Abe no Seimei to whom this temple is dedicated. If the site's on this list, remove it. If your fortune is good, keep it close.

Si os acercáis a alguno durante las horas del almuerzo, probablemente veréis gente que se sienta en los banquitos para comer, echarse un cigarrillo, o simplemente descansar, ya que estas aéreas se consideran de socialización. This is considered a form of purification before you approach the shrine. Even if most Japanese people would say they have no religion beliefs.
