Evidence for the Exodus

A village near Raphia, on the 14th milestone on the road to Egypt, which marks the boundary of Palestine. But as at that time he who was born according to the flesh persecuted him who was born according to the Spirit, so it is now also.

Anthony Spalinger

Pitdown Man, as he called it, consisted of a jaw bone and a piece of skull which he estimated to be over 500,000 years old! In fact, the Straits of Tiran provide the only workable geography to solve the Etham dilemma. Now this Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia and corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery with her children.

Ramesses II

The Exodus Route: A scriptural proof, with the witness of history and archeology. Mt. Sinai in Arabia:

Exodus 1:11 specifies that the Hebrew slaves built the cities of Pithom and Ramesses, a possible reference to Pi-Ramesses.
