Indeed, because the mind is nobler and of a higher order than the body, it is reasonable to think that even more of God's wisdom and skill went into its structure than into that of the body. The first of these principles is, a propensity to speak truth, and to use the signs of language, so as to convey our real sentiments. This edition of Reid's classic philosophical text in the philosophy of mind at long last gives scholars a complete critically edited text of the Inquiry.
