With few manufacturing standards in place, products may be inconsistent in their level of active ingredients, and the potential for contamination is a real concern.

Geriatric Supplement

The classic historical presentation of acute embolism or thrombosis is a patient in severe abdominal pain who looks sick, with a relatively benign physical exam. Although there are myriad potential causes for lower GI bleeding, the most common etiologies are diverticulosis, angiodysplasia, colorectal carcinoma, polyps, and radiation proctitis. We offer specialized support and experience to the patient and their family at both University of Louisville Hospital and Jewish Hospital Downtown.
