ALTERNATIVE sociological explanation is offered by Boswell, who suggests that what happened was the overthrow of the more tolerant and hedonistic values associated with city life, reinforced by the rise to power of emperors and theologians whose origins and ideas were those of the distant provinces in the now enormous empire. Plowden was welcomed by many primary and early years educationalists with its advocating of child centredness, learning through play, first-hand experiences and collaborative working in groups. In addition, as we go through life we enter new communities of practice and leave behind others.
