With these vast number of important global programs as a part of the development of international science, it was natural for the scientific community to become a full partner with five UN bodies in the organization of the Second World Climate Conference in 1990, and then to accept the challenge to move the international scientific effort to a more noticeable policy level by preparing the Rio Conference. L S Shashidhara, the president of IUBS and Catharine Jami of the International Union of History and Philosophy of Science, participated in the event as speakers. Further activities will include development and submission of manuscripts on achievements and gaps in global list assembly, a governance regime for a global list describing the potential to shift from polycentric to federalist governance, the minimum requirements for inclusion on a global list, and balancing the scientific independence of taxonomy with an aspiration to involve users of taxonomic lists.
