Also, any medical conditions that may be contributing to the learning difficulties or that cause school absenteeism need to be treated.

Positive goals for positive behavioural support: interventions to improve the quality of life for people with learning disabilities whose behaviour challenges

Journal of Intellectual Disability Research, 50: 172-183. Quality of evidence Whilst the guideline did use an extensive systematic review of the available literature, unfortunately many of the recommendations were based on poor quality research evidence. However, much of the guidance is broad and as with all guidelines, it is open to local interpretation and adaptation.

Failure to address learning and attention issues too often leads to students being incarcerated, which further disrupts their education and contributes to high dropout and recidivism rates. If she has good oral expressive skills, she could be allowed to give oral reports rather than written ones, and take tests orally. And how to do it? These reasons include illness, unstable housing and transportation problems.

Overview

Possible negative reactions to debriefing Concern has been raised about the possibility that the staff may experience an increase in symptoms, or even denial following the debriefing process. There are lots of great sites to pull from. Journal of the Association for Persons with Severe Handicaps 9 3 , 201-212.
