CORNEILLE, Pierre in

Andrea Sommer-Mathis y Elisabeth Theresia Hilscher, Wien, Verlag der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften, 2000, pp. Last of all—and this is an exceeding virtue—Martínez' speech maintains a fine standard of purity at a time when foreign corruptions ran riot.

Lope de Vega

Éliec pousse des cris ; la justice vient pour les arrêter tous deux. Nous serons deux contre lui, je lui ferai avoir Areusa, et il sera à nous.

Lecturas francesas (I)

Penses-tu à moi ou à un autre? The visit of the Magi is briefly dismissed in the first fifty lines, the poem turning chiefly upon the Flight into Egypt, the miracle wrought upon the leprous child of the robber, and the identification of the latter with the repentant thief of the New Testament. Giacinto Andrea Cicognini, Catania, Nicolò Giannotta, 1912. ¿Sabe Nisea que vo La trataba de ourlar? He never forgets that he has been the Regent of Castile, that he has mingled with kings and queens, that he has cowed emirs and barons, and led his troopers at the charge; and it is well that he never unbends, since his unsmiling patrician humour gives each story a keener point.

La biographie de Tirso de Molina. Points de repère et points de vue

Et même une partie du jour. Niño de jazmines, rosas y azucenas, niño de la niña, después dél, más bella, que tan buenos años, que tan buenas nuevas, que tan buenos días ha dado la tierra. È nobile l'amore della libertà, che, insieme col proposito di vendicare la morte del padre, fa di Emilia l'animatrice della congiura di Cinna contro l'imperatore: ma la coscienza più vasta e più generosa di Augusto riesce a dominare e a placare le passioni dei congiurati i quali si conciliano alla sua visione giusta e serena dell'Impero.
