Boswell, Journal of a Tour

Though a county town and a royal burgh, it is a miserable place.

The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides with Samuel Johnson, LL.D. by James Boswell on Undiscovered Scotland: 13. Tarnet to Edinburgh

Johnson had provided a pair of pistols, some gunpowder, and a quantity of bullets: but upon being assured we should run no risk of meeting any robbers, he left his arms and ammunition in an open drawer, of which he gave my wife the charge. He strikes to hurt always, but he is always ready to heal the wound.

The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides with Samuel Johnson, LL.D. by James Boswell on Undiscovered Scotland: 13. Tarnet to Edinburgh

I hope you are enjoying life and friends and the weather: and believe me Ever yours truly, B. He said, 'I like the exception: to have called me the greatest man in England, would have been an unmeaning compliment: but the exception marked that the praise was in earnest; and, in Scotland, the exception must be Lord Mansfield, or — Sir John Pringle. He found it without difficulty; as he approached he heard the Green Knight sharpening his ax.

The Journal of a Tour to the Hebrides with Samuel Johnson, LL.D. by James Boswell on Undiscovered Scotland: 13. Tarnet to Edinburgh

I am Master of this College, What I don't know--is not knowledge. Where shall we find an equal to succeed you? With such propitious convoys did he proceed to my native city.
