The bibliography below covers some of the main lists available in print only the more recent editions are included.

Public records: Land taxes and feudal surveys

A transcript, made in 1302, of about 500 earlier records of feudal tenure, dating from 1198-1293; many of these, where they still survive, are now in class E198 see below. The edition is selective: Hall reordered the Red Book's contents to a more rational arrangement, and omitted a certain amount of material, including texts which already existed in print elsewhere or which he expected to reach print shortly, many of the later addenda, and some entries for which he simply did not have space.
