He was not even seriously affected by drink.

Smith and Keenan's English Law

Retinopathy of prematurity was not the only disease caused by medical treatment; increasing interest in the neonate was accompanied by the rapid use of new drugs such as chloramphenicol and the sulphonamides, and, as immature babies did not metabolise these like adults, overdosage might occur. Once the NHS was established, there was no shortage of NHS patients and few consultants made a substantial income from private practice.

The West Yorkshire Metropolitan Ambulance Service National Health Service Trust (Establishment) Order 1992

University College Hospital was the first teaching hospital to establish a unit, under Lord Amulree, at St Pancras Hospital.

South Yorkshire Ambulance Service

It became the preferred technique for monitoring the progress of pregnancy, replacing radiology, which had been shown by Alice Stewart in Oxford to put babies at risk.
