NO changes have been made to the original text. Wherefore, since we spoke of the obligation which emancipated persons are under to their masters who liberated them, on account of both nature and justice, and of other matters which relate to the state of men in general we intend to speak here of the obligation which persons are under to those to whom they belong, on account of the bond of. And, since in the preceding Titles we spoke of the impediments which prevent men from marrying and because of which their marriages should be annulled, where such men do marry; it is proper that we speak in this Title of the accusations by means of which marriages are annulled.

Alonso en las Partidas, manifiesta que Justiniano la adoptó, convencido de la naturaleza y artificiosa construcción de este número, por tenerse entonces por tan ciertas y ser tan generales las altas ideas y opiniones sobre el mismo, que espusieron Marcobio y Aulo Gelio, hablando de sus escelen- cias y misterios. IIII Leather Binding on Spine and Corners with Golden leaf printing on spine.
