Genesis 24: The great decision

Even amidst the horrors of the last Jewish war, few spectacles could have been so sickening as that of the wild stand at Tarichæa, ending with the butchery of 6,500 on land and sea, and lastly, the vile treachery by which they, to whom mercy had been promised, were lured into the circus at Tiberias, when the weak and old, to the number of about 1,200, were slaughtered, and the rest - upwards of 30,400 - sold into slavery. Who will step up and take command of Europe now that Angela Merkel is out of the spotlight? Scott Ragan is a staff attorney with the First Judicial Circuit, Shalimar. We can understand, how it followed after solitary prayer by Christ - we can scarcely doubt, for that very revelation by the Father, which He afterwards joyously recognised in the words of Peter.
