

No. 7, Gracechurch-street, September 23, 1771. To the worthy liverymen of the city of London - (Appeal for support in the election for Bridgemaster).

- - A Topographical Dictionary of London: N

Description: -

-No. 7, Gracechurch-street, September 23, 1771. To the worthy liverymen of the city of London - (Appeal for support in the election for Bridgemaster).

-No. 7, Gracechurch-street, September 23, 1771. To the worthy liverymen of the city of London - (Appeal for support in the election for Bridgemaster).

Notes: Gives results at close of poll on September 21.

This edition was published in 1771

Filesize: 53.28 MB

Tags: #The #Project #Gutenberg #eBook #of #Old #and #New #London, #by #Walter #Thornbury

A Topographical Dictionary of London: N

SCOTTISH CORPORATION OFFICE, THE, is at the upper end of Crane Court, Fleet Street, This charitable institution owes its origin to James Kinniar, a native of Scotland, and a merchant of London, who, on recovering from a long and dangerous illness, gave part of his estate towards the relief of the aged and necessitous of his country people in the metropolis, and prevailed upon others of his countrymen to join him in his benevolent plan. They were pulled down at the Reformation.

London and Its Environs Described. Vol. II., by Anonymous

Blanchard's, the goldsmith's, next door to Temple Bar, that Dryden the poet, bruised and angry, deposited £50 as a reward for any one who would discover the bullies of Lord Rochester who had beaten him in Rose Alley for some scurrilous verses really written by the Earl of Dorset. It is an emanation from the Phoenix Office, and was established in 1797.

Events

SCOTLAND YARD, GREAT, Charing Cross or Whitehall, is opposite the Admiralty, and derives its name from a magnificent palace built there, for the reception of the Scottish monarchs whenever they visited this metropolis. Pepys came to his bedside and threatened to pinch him with the red-hot tongs. It is a plain Gothic building, sixty six feet in length, fifty-four in breadth, and twenty-four feet high.

A Topographical Dictionary of London: N

OAT LANE, Foster Lane, is the fourth turning on the left hand side, of Noble Street, going from Cheapside.

A Topographical Dictionary of London: N

It was not, however, till 1761 George III. ROYAL ACADEMY OF ARTS, THE, is in the western wing of the street front of Somerset Place, This institution was established by royal charter in 1768, under the especial patronage of King George III.

Related Books

- International Whos Who 1981-82
- Many faces of new perspectives - strategies in natural resource management
- Resident fish habitat management
- Preliminary checklist for a bibliography on Jane Addams.
- Dragonflies and damselflies of Britain and Northern Europe