Palestine’s private sector growth plan depends on politics

It is clear that only by regional cooperation between the States concerned can satisfactory solutions be worked out for the water problems.

Water politics in the Middle East

Although the internal distribution of water is left to the discretion of the settlement corporation, it is worth noting, states the report, that if a settlement does not use its annual quota, it may receive its entire water allocation in the following year. However, we must also note that it was the economic performance of Zionists compared to the Arabs that allowed the subsequent subjugation and expulsion of the Palestinian people, the main factor of the Israeli-Palestinian and wider Arab-Israeli conflict.

The Politics of Water

It is published as part of our mission to showcase peer-leading papers written by students during their studies. International donors can be expected to support their strategic ally in its endeavour.

The importance of water politics in the Israel

Menachem Begin had appointed a committee to formulate Israeli positions in this respect.

Also, given the Israeli restrictions on water use and any water-related development, in particular planting, it may not be economical to develop a source of water for which a drilling authorization was granted. Mahmoud Abbas has no autonomous power against the Saudis, he just follows orders.

The “Apolitical” Approach to Palestine’s Water Crisis

However, most young Palestinians don't remember the Intifada.

If the conflict can be placated in any way through an environmental reframing, any step toward more civil relations would serve both parties. The whole economic future of Palestine is dependent upon its water supply for irrigation and for electric power, and the water supply must mainly be derived from the slopes of Mount Hermon, from the headwaters of the Jordan and from the Litani river.

The importance of water politics in the Israel

These claims ignore the fact that the water of the West Bank — almost entirely controlled by Israel — can provide relief to Gaza.
