He officially took over the school from his father in 1906 even though he had been running it since 1902. Chapter Two also includes some of the historical background of his early writings, a few references to his pre-1900 writings, as well as discussions of his earliest thoughts on disease, structure and function, mixing chiropractic, vertebral subluxation, Innate Intelligence, Educated Intelligence, and Universal Intelligence. This 1921 first edition is designed to give the chiropractic student comprehensive knowledge of the spine and physical representation of the cause of disease.
