[PDF] The Literature Review: A Step

A dissertation will have a more exhaustive literature review than an 8 page paper, for example.

How to Write a Literature Review

However, this too has to be done professionally. In the case of a literature review, you are really creating a new forest, which you will build by using the trees you found in the literature you read. Your professor will probably not expect you to read everything that's available about the topic, but you'll make your job easier if you first limit scope of the research problem.

Literature Review

Review articles can be helpful to understand what research has been done. Keep or exclude based on whether they are relevant to your research question.

Guidelines for writing a literature review

When you write your review, you should address these relationships and different categories and discuss relevant studies using this as a framework.

What, Who & Why

You will revisit steps and revise along the way.

Literature Review

It may be written as a stand-alone paper or to provide a theoretical framework and rationale for a research study such as a thesis or dissertation.

Guidelines for writing a literature review

On the other hand, a review in a thesis, dissertation, or journal article presenting original research usually leads to the research questions that will be addressed.
