University of Ottawa professor Jan Grabowski is awaiting a ruling in a Polish court on Tuesday that could have broad implications for historians seeking to study the Holocaust. In 1861 he was re-elected to the Legislative Assembly of Lower Canada, and after the creation of Confederation in 1867, he became a member of the House of Commons. The researchers, however, viewed the case as an attempt to discredit their overall findings and discourage other researchers from investigating the truth about Polish involvement in the German mass murder of Jews.

However, of interest for this report especially, the 1981 and 1991 censuses showed a reversal of this trend with 50% and 70%, respectively, perhaps due to a revival in language interest and the arrival of new immigrants. Religious festivals, feast days and social events gave these new Catholic Canadians a connection to their Polish identity and community cohesiveness.
