This is your "escape" sort of structuralism, the kind that a decade or so ago turned some people into "poststructuralists" a linguistic abomination in its own right that I still cannot hear without cringing, given its ironic presumption of temporal coherence. Excluded Ancestors focuses on little-known scholars who contributed significantly to the anthropological work of their time, but whose work has since been marginalized due to categorical boundaries of race, class, gender, citizenship, institutional and disciplinary affiliation, and English-language proficiency.
