Landlords can no longer ban tenants from having pets in rented accommodation under new laws

The tenant can do this even after the tenancy has come to an end and they have left the dwelling but the application must be made not later than three months after the tenancy has ended. A tenant who pays in advance but then decides not to occupy the unit MAY NOT be entitled to a refund.

Ending a tenancy as a landlord

The principle of tacit relocation can continue a lease indefinitely on the same terms as originally agreed, except as to duration. There is now concern that property owners can no longer rely on the certainty that properties can be let on a short-term basis. It will no longer be possible to enter into an Assured Tenancy or, more commonly, a Short Assured Tenancy on or after 1 December 2017.

A change for residential landlords and tenants in Scotland

These rental limits remained unchanged until 2 January 1989 when the limit was raised by Order to £300 per week. Just 7 per cent of landlords advertise pet friendly properties meaning many people struggle to find suitable homes.

Legionella risk assessment

Sections 31A-C concern the jurisdiction of the leasehold valuation tribunal.

Renting your property out in Scotland

In contrast the landlord of a controlled house south of the border who charged the permitted increase of 40 per cent benefited from the whole of that increase. A tenant is an equal party with the landlord. See additional information alongside the content Geographical Extent: Indicates the geographical area that this provision applies to.

How to evict tenants in Scotland

Most landlords granted a fixed-term tenancy for six months or one year but it can be longer. You may want to audit the ability of your staff to be able to adapt to agile or remote working. However, even if your agreement appears to give fewer rights than you are entitled to in law, your minimum legal rights still apply.
