Approaching The Dhamma: Buddhist Texts And Practices In South And Southeast... 9781681723150

Rejecting the concept of a reified monolithic and timeless 'Buddhism', this publication reflects the entangled 'dynamic and multi-dimensional' history of Buddhism in Asia over extended periods of 'integration,' 'development of multiple centres,' and 'European expansion,' which shaped the religion's regional and trans-regional identities. This project involved extensive new research in Thailand, Laos and China. It includes finely painted copies of Buddhist scriptures, literary works, historical narratives, and works on traditional medicine, law, cosmology, and fortune-telling.

Anne Blackburn

It arises out of the University of Bristol's Centre for Buddhist Studies research project Buddhist Death Rituals in Southeast Asia and China, funded by the United Kingdom's Arts and Humanities Research Council. From the eleventh century onwards the Sihala Sangha and Sihala Buddhism constitute a strong and vitalising force in the religious history of South-east Asia, and the Buddhist countries in South-east Asia looked on Ceylon as the fountainhead of Theravada Buddhism. Cambridge, UK: Cambridge University Press, 1990.

Approaching the Dhamma: Buddhist Texts and Practices in South and Southeast Asia: Blackburn PhD, Anne M., Samuels PhD, Jeffrey: 9781928706199: styleguide.expo.io: Books

Buddhism in early 21st-century Southeast Asia is often described as Theravada Buddhism, in contrast to Mahayana Buddhism found farther to the north and east. With a new introduction by the editor, this collection is a unique and unrivalled research resource for both student and scholar.
