Multiethnic Japan

Commercial Report hereafter CR for Yokohama for 1889. The show goes up and down since episode one, between LN's conventions and good writing.

Religious nationalism and the making of the modern Japanese state

The problem of the new foreign workers arose precisely at a time when the idea of monoethnic Japan faced challenges from the previously silenced legacy of Japanese colonialism.

Aizawa Shouta

Kibata eds , History of Anglo-Japanese Relations, 1600—2000, vol. The sources of cultural superiority, along with modes of expression, are diverse, although they are united in affirming Japanese superiority over the new foreign workers. Nomo Hideo and Irabu Hideki—two Japanese pitching sensations in the U.

Iwakura (sacred rocks)

In addition, some Japanese were fanatical about tennis, which denoted aristocratic tastes, and others avidly followed boxing, with its plebeian connotation.

Aizawa Shouta

Yamao Yozo also studied in London and Glasgow, and worked for the Napier shipyard.

The History of Anglo

Economic policy towards Japan during the Occupation is discussed more fully in R. The Chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China, which was founded in London in 1854, opened its Yokohama branch in 1863; the Oriental Bank Corporation, founded in London in 1842, opened its Yokohama branch in 1864; the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, which was founded in Hong Kong in 1865 to serve British business interests, opened its Yokohama branch in 1866. This is not to say, however, that British business and economic decisionmakers were content to forget the past.

However, considering that more than 80 per cent of physicians in those days practiced. The aim was to promote a wide range of industries including railways, steelmaking, telegraphic communications, shipbuilding and lighthouse construction. When I said that they should be regarded as an ethnic group, most people disagreed strongly.

Référence

What is evident is that during the 1930s the growth in Japanese exports of a range of commodities, from cotton piecegoods through to bicycles, lightbulbs and a number of others, threatened the British share in a number of markets.
