Strategies for increasing affordable housing amid the COVID

Lenders use NOI to calculate how much debt a developer will reasonably be able to pay off, accounting for interest and recognizing the developer still needs to have some cash flow to cover unexpected expenses. A family that receives a voucher may use it either to help pay the rent of its current unit or to rent a different unit. Because of the change in housing location, children in recipient families are often given more opportunity to succeed in education than they would have had they stayed in alternate housing.
