U.N. GENERAL ASSEMBLY RESOLUTION ON THE U.N. CONFERENCE ON THE HUMAN ENVIRONMENT on JSTOR

UNCHE, also known as the Stockholm Conference, linked environmental protection with sustainable development.

Agenda

Such increased interest and research collaboration arguably paved the way for further understanding of global warming, which has led to such agreements as the and the , and has given a foundation of modern environmentalism. Instead, the Johannesburg Declaration addresses the environment and sustainable development in more general terms. This obviously caters to employment and income generation to the people in the host country.

Stockholm Conference (United Nations Conference on the Human Environment)

A network of pollution monitoring agencies would monitor pollution levels across the world. . The Kyoto Protocol, which went into effect in February 2005, requires developed signatory countries to reduce their greenhouse-gas emissions to 5% below 1990 levels by 2012.
