Fenech and Fenech Advocates

Banking company Banking company refers to a banking company as defined in the Banking Companies Act, 1949.

Employment tribunal decisions

The conciliation officer is entitled to enter an establishment to which the dispute relates, after reasonable notice and also to call for and inspect any document which he consider relevant. Definition of Court The court can be described as the judiciary body set up by the government to adjudicate disputes between the competing parties through a formal legal process. Strikes during proceedings of conciliation and arbitration meetings are prohibited.

Industrial Disputes Act, 1947

The whole scheme is utterly convoluted and complicated and will delay adjudication proceedings. In addition to the above, one may note that the Tribunal also considers the duration of the employment relationship between the employment relationship and the reputation of such employee within the said industry as significant factors when computing compensation due. The proceedings before an Industrial Tribunal are quasi-judicial in nature with all the attributes of a Court of Justice.

Compensation at Industrial Tribunal in 2020 and 2021

It may be constituted for a limited time or for any particular Case.

Industrial Tribunals and the Fair Employment Tribunal Northern Ireland

The rule provide speedy remedies for industrial disputes by compulsory reference of disputes to conciliation or adjudication, by making the awards of adjudicators legally binding on the parties, by prohibiting strikes and lock-outs during the pendency of conciliation or arbitration proceeding. It came into force April 1, 1947. Moreover, due to increasing awareness about their rights and Labour laws among the workers, there is a gradual increase in the number of cases being filed under the I.
