History Ireland

Lawrence O'Toole was born around 1128 in County Kildare, Ireland. Glendalough was an important monastic city, tracing its foundation to the sixth-century St Kevin. From he received a , confirming the rights and privileges of the See of Dublin.

CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA: St. Lawrence O'Toole

The canons of Eu who received these stories lived in a region that was severed from English rule when the king of France took Normandy in 1204. The king from 1126 was Dermot MacMurrough.

Home

But Laurence was quite well-known in his own days as well - in fact he was so respected that after his death, his canonization was speed-tracked to appease his many followers. He is represented there with bearded face, mitre on his head, dressed in his vestments and priestly insignia.

History Ireland

Apparently they told police that since stealing the heart, they had come to believe they had been cursed. They might therefore have openly sympathised with the Irish and the cause of their newfound patron when writing his Life in the 1220s. Because of a strange and kind of spooky caper involving the theft of his heart! When his duties allowed him, he liked nothing better than to escape to Glendalough and spend a few days in solitude in a lakeside hermitage which could be reached only by boat.

Baldoyle Parish

He encouraged learning, built new churches and renewed -monastic life by bringing in monks from the continent. Around lunchtime, however, cathedral officials made a startling discovery: The reliquary was gone, along with the heart of Saint Laurence. It may be these rituals that Laurence and those who told these stories had had in mind.
