The best-known version of the song, recorded by , charted in America in at 4 and remained in that chart for 19 weeks. Australians have a well-earned international reputation to uphold! The singing of bawdy songs, or, as we prefer to call them in Australia and New Zealand, filthy or dirty songs, is dying out in the English-speaking world. I started collecting bawdry sometime in the boisterous nineteen sixties as part of my vacuum cleaner approach to collecting bush songs, verse, yarns and other folklore.
