I'll make a big splash and keep in the public eye. The boy was no fool.

The Vision Splendid by William MacLeod Raine, Paperback

And perhaps but don't say so to Horatia I may have to think about the possibility some day—but not yet.

Tim Duffy Optometrist, Vision Splendid

If anyone expects me to sparkle I am tongue-tied on the instant. The corners of the Comte's mouth twitched, and to Tristram's relief he touched up his horse for a sign that the subject was done with.

'A Vision Splendid'

After class the dissenters walked across to chapel together. Keep your ward workers busy, but don't expect them to win. You're not thinking of going before it's over, Rector? It seemed right that he should know of it, though little less than a miracle.

Vision Splendid: A History of the Winton District Western Queensland 9780646444031

But John Hungerford, worn out with his labours in the cause to which he had sacrificed everything, died a few months later, and Mrs. He was indulging an ugly temper, and he knew it.

The Vision Splendid, by William Macleod Raine

Better take the advice of Cousin James and crawl into your shell till the storm has pelted past. Who is he, I should like to know, to behave as if my Horatia were not good enough for his younger son? She wondered if he would ever come to England again.
