About this phase In 2006, Deepa Banerjee, the South Asian Studies Librarian, joined the University of Washington Libraries to establish the second phase of this project. The Collection serves the research needs of University of Chicago faculty and students. In Sri Lanka, women been practicing vertical gardening which meeting the daily consumption needs became source of extra income for the family.

Solid Waste Management in South Asia

Each item includes title pages, table of contents, and, when available, prefatory notes, selected illustrations and text. These interviews reflect religious, linguistic, occupational and gender diversity and provide rich insight into changing experiences of South Asians in the Pacific Northwest. Through technology we enable poor communities to build on their skills and knowledge to produce sustainable and practical solutions-transforming their lives forever and protecting the world around them.

Projects on South Asia

Many important reference resources are held, including Asian Studies Virtual Library, Digital South Asia Library, Electronic Buddhist text Initiative, Journal of Asian Studies and Digital Himalaya.
