Likely, Acts is a stylized version of what Paul claimed himself about that experience here, stylized simply means that the story was constructed in a way that was intended as true, but also second hand. Gentile Culture In the first place, we should note that throughout his life, Paul lived not only in Jewish Palestine, but at different times in his life he lived in the Gentile world as well.

However, if Acts is accurate, he would be arrested upon being accused of debasing the Temple Acts 21. He does not remain outside the world of the poor, giving them things from afar. We might say that the theologies which he had studied and the theologians he had known gave him theological structures to understand his own experiences and a language with which to express them.

Who was the Apostle Paul?

The first journey, for which Paul and Barnabas were commissioned by the Antioch community, and led initially by Barnabas, took Barnabas and Paul from Antioch to Cyprus then into southern Asia Minor Anatolia, and finally returning to Antioch. According to the 95—96 AD, 110 AD and 166—174 AD Paul was.

Who was the Apostle Paul?

The legalism of the Roman Catholic Church roughly corresponded to the legalism of the Judaizers. The six letters believed by some but not all to have been written by Paul are Ephesians, Colossians, 2 Thessalonians, 1 Timothy, 2 Timothy, and Titus. Second Thessalonians is obviously an imitation of the style of First Thessalonians but seems to reflect a later time.

Paul the Apostle

Discrepancies between the Pauline epistles and Acts would further support the conclusion that the author of Acts did not have access to those epistles when composing Acts. They returned through the cities of Galatia, eventually reaching the sea and sailing for home. In fact, the three letters together are often called Pastoral Letters, as they were written to instruct and admonish the recipients in their pastoral office rather than to address the specific problems of congregations like many of the other Pauline epistles.
