Purgatorio

My guide, then laying hold on me, by words And intimations given with hand and head, Made my bent knees and eye submissive pay Due reverence; then thus to him replied: Not of myself I come; a Dame from heaven Descending, him besought me in my charge To bring.

Purgatory. Canto I. Dante Alighieri. 1909

Permit us through thy sevenfold realm to go; I will take back this grace from thee to her, If to be mentioned there below thou deignest.

It is not eternal because at the Last Judgment, when all souls will be allocated to either Hell or Paradise, Purgatory will cease to exist. The gate of Purgatory, Peter's Gate, is guarded by an angel bearing a naked sword, his countenance too bright for Dante's sight to sustain. Here Dante also meets his friend and his poetic predecessor.

Purgatorio

Purgatorio is the second part of Dante's Divine Comedy, following the Inferno, and preceding the Paradiso. The last canti of Purgatorio, canti 28-33, take place in the garden of Eden, also known as the Earthly Paradise. Ulysses comes by sea, while Dante comes by land.

Purgatorio 28

Further down the terrace, personifies greed for worldly wealth and possessions.
