Guns in Church

What remains constant in the nationalist is his own state of mind: the object of his feelings is changeable, and may be imaginary. It's a coalition of many different ideological groups, some of which are directly contradictory, mixing say classical liberal attitudes about laissez-faire economics, with socially conservative attitudes towards family and religion, with reactionary factions who wish to overturn laws, traditions, and rules that have been in place for a long time. A Russian correspondent informs me that mention of the Pact is already being omitted from Russian year-books which table recent political events.
