RAMASWAMI MUDALIAR CARLTON HOUSE, Bangalore, 15th May 1949 ------ PREFATORY NOTE This is the first time that the Adyar Library has included a Tamil text in its Series.

kutumpa vilakku

Pirivāṛṭāmai The Pangs of Separation 117. A good progeny awaits the pure. Gold shines all the more in fire; those who do penance become mellowed through suffering.

Iramalinka Cuvamikal: Tiruvarutpa

Is there anything greater than a woman if only she is the citadel of chastity? And the Roman script is now fairly well spread over in the whole world; that is why the text has been given in the Roman script, with the English translation. To welcome one with a pleasant look and loving words is righteousness.

kutumpa vilakku

The rain is the source of all articles of food that man needs. Desire, longing;

Men think a little of the stomach only when the ear is not fed.

■■■■■■■■■■■■■■■ [Iraṇṭāvatu kātal katai] by Sujatha

To bear with those who slander us is the crown of virtue. Does the field of one who partakes of what remains after entertaining the guest, need to be sown with seeds? The aniccam flower withers when smelt, and the guest under a displeased look. It is a winning army which has neither littleness, nor irremovable bitterness and poverty.

Ramaswami Mudaliar Prefatory Note by Prof. The learning of those who speak without taking into consideration the assembly addressed or ignorant of the art of speaking can be of no use to them. A good minister wins the approval of the listener by persuasive speech.
